Centre for Education and Communication (CEC) organizes a national assembly for Sustainable Livelihoods for Small Tea Growers from West Bengal, Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Tripura and Mizoram

New Delhi, 7th June 2016- Emphasizing their rights in the tea industry and highlighting a better transparency in Tea Board's price sharing formula, small tea growers from Assam, Arunachal, Tripura, Mizoram and West Bengal have gathered in Delhi. They have gathered as part of an innovative event - "PPS Assembly Celebration of Innovation" - organised by Centre for Education and Communication, New Delhi, for celebrating the initiatives of primary producer societies and encouraging them for better sustainability. More than 200 STG representatives who participated in the event, demanded concrete supportive measures from the government to set up their own manufacturing units. Many of these societies are formed by tribal communities and women from these regions.

"Within a month, Tea Board of India , through Ministry of Commerce, will come up with notification on guidelines for setting up mini and micro factories for small tea growers, " announced Sri Santhosh Kumar Sarangi, Chairman, Tea Board of India, while addressing the PPS Assembly. . "Tea Board will allocate more funds for small tea growers. More subsidies will be given for maintaining their water sheds and transportation", he adds. According to him, Small Tea Growers will have to grow up the value chain, become producers and participate in auction on their own. Tea Board will give them training in quality control and make sure the tea produced is of good quality. "Considering the global warming and erratic rains, more and more tea growers will have to encourage into organic farming", he emphasized.

"A win-sin situation will come when tea industry recognizes small tea growers and forge sustainable business partnerships with them. More and more BLFs and Estate factories must come forward to purchase leaf from the societies giving them fairer price", says J John, Executive Director, Centre for Education and Communication. He further added, "CEC has been working towards reducing poverty and improving income of the STGs.

The present project of "Sustainable Livelihoods for Small Tea Growers", supported by the European Union, addresses some of the key issues confronting the small tea growers. Organizing Primary Producer Society (PPS) for direct collective leaf trade and improvement in agricultural practices are at the heart of the activities. Over 590 PPS have been formed till date reaching out to about 50,000 growers. To reduce the vulnerability of STGs, since 2009, CEC worked among the STGs in building collectives in Kerala and Tamil Nadu under a NABARD supported project. Now, CEC is determined to help those PPSs who are empowered and want to move up the tea value chain, taking definite steps to manufacture and market tea of small tea growers."

Sharing his happiness of being a part to the betterment of Small Tea Grower (STG), Johan Hesse, Head of Cooperation, European Union, said that "better trade and better bargaining process should be assured for the tea growers in India". With tea board cooperation and the stakeholders support, he trusted a positive growth in the life of small tea growers.

"Small tea growers contribute 35 to 40 percent of the tea production in India and why do we still address them as STGs" asks Dr. Khan, NABARD, Mumbai. According to him, farmer must be at the centre and not one commodity. He emphasized that awareness creation and capacity building will help them go up the vale chain.

India is the second largest producer of tea in the world. The Small Tea Growers segment has emerged over the last two to three decades following the serious structural shifts in the Indian tea industry, otherwise dominated by large tea estates. With less than 0.5 to 5 acres of land, approximately 450,000 STGs contribute 36% of the India's annual tea production. But, despite their high share, STGs remain at the bottom of the tea value chain as they remain isolated in the remotest and most backward regions like Assam, Tripura, North Bengal, Mizoram, Arunachal Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Meghalaya, Nagaland and the hills of Tamil Nadu and Kerala.

In the event, 10 best performing Primary Producer Societies were awarded 'desk-top computers' and next 40 PPSs were awarded 'soil analysis kits'. Mr. Pattabiraman Subramanian, Programme Manager, Delegation of the European Union to India said, "Desktop will enable STGs to keep accurate digitized accounts and records. Soil analysis kit will equip growers to obtain fertility and health status of soil and will help them to increase productivity per unit area by narrowing the cost-benefit ratio."

Insurance for plantation crops soon

PRABHUDATTA MISHRA

New Delhi

AFTER launching the prime minister fasal bima yojana, the government plans to roll out an insurance scheme for farmers of plantation crops like tea, coffee and spices to help them sustain weatherinduced losses in yield.

The draft guidelines have been sent to states for feedback, said Santosh Sarangi, a joint secretary in the commerce ministry.

According to the plan, farmers will pay just 10 per cent of the premium and the rest would be subsidised by the Centre and states. The Centre will give a subsidy of 75 per cent and states will contribute 15 per cent of the premium, Sarangi said.

"Plantation farmers don't have an insurance scheme and they face losses in productivity whenever there is weather anomaly," he said. "All the trade promotion boards are working jointly on this plan," he said.

On the e-auction plan, he said, the commerce ministry would notify guidelines in two months, allowing smaller tea processers get registered with the tea board to take part in it.

It will help 86,000 small tea growers under the 467 SHGs already formed, said BG Chakraborty, president of the confederation of Indian small tea growers' associations. The tea board's initiative is aimed at the collective groups of small growers, he said.

There are 250,000 small tea growers in Assam, Bengal, TN and Kerala. The board has decided to allow growers' SHGs to set up mini and micro processing units of 500 kg. SHGs will get incentives after notification of norms. Chakraborty said the number of such processing units will go up from 70 at present.

Sarangi also said the pan-India tea auction, scheduled to begin this month, has been delayed to July due to some technical issues.

Commerce secretary Rita Teaotia had announced in Kolkata on May 10 that the pan-India e-auction of tea would be rolled out in June. The manual tea auction was started in Calcutta in 1861.

Setting up manufacturing units Small tea growers in Bengal, Assam, N-E seek Tea Board support

EOICORRESPONDENT

KOLKATA, JUNE 9/-/Emphasizing their rights in the tea industry and highlighting a better transparency in Tea Board's price sharing formula, Small Tea Growers (STG) from Assam, Arunachal, Tripura, Mizoram and West Bengal came together. They gathered as part of an innovative event - "PPS Assembly Celebration of Innovation"- organised by Centre for Education and Communication, for celebrating the initiatives of primary producer societies and encouraging them for better sustainability. More than 200 STG representatives who participated in the event, demanded concrete supportive measures from the government to set up their own manufacturing units. Many of these societies are formed by tribal communities and women from these regions.

"Within a month, Tea Board of India, through Ministry of Commerce, will come up with notification on guidelines for setting up mini and microfactories for small teagrowers," announced Santhosh Kumar Sarangi, Chairman, Tea Board of India, while addressing the PPS Assembly. 'Tea Board will allocate more funds for small tea growers. More subsidies will be given for maintaining their water sheds and transportation", he adds. According to him, Small Tea Growers will have to grow up the value chain, become producers and participate in auction on their own. Tea Board will give them training in quality control and make sure the tea produced is of good quality. "Considering the global warming and erratic rains, more and more tea growers will have to encouraged into organic farming", he emphasized.

During the assembly Prafulla Debbarma of Panchamnagar Tea Producer Company, Tripura said, 'CEC has helped us so far. But we are determined to set up our own manufacturing unit to produce organic orthodox and green tea. We seek active support from the Tea Board of India and Ministry of Commerce to build small grower tea brand'. Bijoy Gopal Chakraborty, President of Confederation of Indian Small Tea Growers' Association (CISTA) said, "We appreciate the Price sharing formula (PSF). But STGs are still unable to get fair price for their green leaf. Growers experiance great fluctuations in the price that they receive from the Bought Leaf Factories (BLF), for per kg of green leaf, ranging from Rs.22 to Rs.4 in West Bengal and Tamil Nadu; and Rs.22 to Rs.7 in Assam (2015 season). No such variations were reported in the Auction price during the year. Moreover, there is lack of transparency in the actual price realised since, among other things, under The Tea Marketing Control Order (TMCO) only 50 per cent of Pronoy tea goes to auction. Basumatari, Bodoland, Assam said. 'We are 'innovators' and 'startups' in the most back ward rural areas in India. Small tea growers are providing employment to thousands of people and are agents of development. We urge government to remove road blocks in starting manufacturing units in the rural areas. We are meeting Minister of Commerce to discuss the issue." Dinesh Kumar Sarah, Advisor, All Assam Small Tea Growers' Association said. The new Assam government must remove barriers in making available to growers, the funds accrued under Cess Utilisaiton Policy collecting 0.25 p from every kg of green leaf sold by growers to the BLFs.
